Test of Strength Provided Between New Group and Lewis' Organization

FLINT, Mich., June 12—C. I. O. unionists marched through unresisting A. F. L. picket lines in Flint and Saginaw today and resumed operations in every General Motors plant ordered struck by Homer Martin, president of the A. F. L. auto workers union.

In Saginaw, 30 police officers injured five A. F. L. pickets and arrested eight as they swung clubs to enforce the new state labor law prohibiting pickets from blocking entrances and exits. The picket line outside the Chevrolet Grey Iron foundry was broken and G. M. officials reported 90 percent of the employees were at work.

Fisher Body Plant No. 1 in Flint was closed for an hour as 400 A. F. L. pickets paraded outside the gates, but Plant Manager George C. Paterson ordered work to begin after 2,000 of the plant's 3,200 employees reported.

Rivals Are "Booted"

The pickets made no effort to halt the C. I. O. marchers, but booted and shouted "scab" at the rival unionists. C. I. O. unionists inside the plant lined the front windows and booed the pickets. Across the street from the plant, rival groups of sympathizers alternately cheered and booed.

VALUABLE PIECE OF ART STOLEN, FRENCH REVEALS

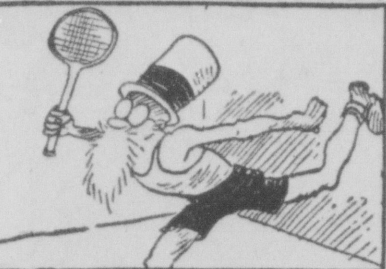

PARIS, June 12—Theft of a 4,000,000 franc ($120,000) Watteau masterpiece from the Louvre was disclosed today.

The painting, known as "L'Indifference," is the first work of art to be stolen from the Louvre since Leonardo da Vinci's priceless "Mona Lisa" was taken in 1911. The latter was subsequently recovered.

The work was one of the smallest Watteau canvases in the Louvre. Police and art dealers throughout the world were notified. The robbery occurred yesterday.

Antoine Watteau, whose painting was stolen from the Louvre, lived from 1684 to 1721. One of the most famous of French painters, he specialized in groups and rural scenes. In his art, experts say, can be found the germs of present-day impressionism.

Boy's Allegiance Divided—Royal Autographs for Fair

THIS little fellow, one of the thousands who lined the streets of New York to welcome the King and Queen of England, remains firmly loyal to the United States while honoring the royal couple. In his left hand is the Union Jack; in his right, the Stars and Stripes.

King and Queen Rested, Near End of Vacation

ABOARD ROYAL TRAIN, Canada, June 12—King George and Queen Elizabeth were once more back on Canadian soil today for four concluding days of receptions and ceremonies far more rigorous than the pleasant weekend of informality they spent at the Roosevelt estate in Hyde Park.

Delson, Quebec, was the first stop scheduled for the gleaming royal blue and silver train after its departure last night from the red brick railroad station at Hyde Park.

The royal train left American soil at about 6 a. m. at Rouse's Point, N. Y.

The first of the concluding round of royal ceremonies was scheduled for Sherbrooke, Quebec, where the King and Queen will hold an hour-long reception for their bowing and curtsying subjects.

The British rulers were well relaxed and rested for their final arduous duties after the Hyde Park picnic where they partook with royal gusto of the hot-dogs and other peculiarly American accommodations prepared by the Roosevelt household.

Except for a brief stopover at Delson and another at Levis, opposite Quebec, and the reception at Sherbrooke, the royal party will spend the remaining days of their sojourn on this side of the Atlantic touring the three provinces which they did not visit on the first part of the Canadian trip. These are New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

On Thursday night, their majesties will board the liner Empress of Britain at Halifax for the return voyage to England.

THREE DEAD, TWO HURT IN WRECK AT PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, June 12—An automobile accident eight miles west of Portsmouth left three dead today and two persons seriously injured.

The three were killed when an automobile driven by Chester Cooper, 17, left the road on State Route 125 and crashed into a tree. Cooper, Sheila Mae Artrip, 14, and Robert Artrip, 10, died instantly.

Those injured were William Artrip, 12, and Mrs. Julia Artrip, 35, mother of the Artrip children.

ANGRY ELEPHANT HURTS EMPLOYEE OF BIG CIRCUS

CINCINNATI, June 12—Harry F. Hannon, 62, of Lewistown, Pa., was recovering today from injuries received when Rosie, a Barnum and Bailey Circus elephant, became enraged and threw him to the ground and stepped on him. Hannon, a circus employee, suffered several broken ribs.

GUARD AT B. I. S. FACES CHARGES OF TWO YOUTHS

COLUMBUS, June 12—Police checked a story told by a Boys' Industrial School guard today that he aided two prisoners to escape. The guard, Donovan Bryant, of Hillsboro, was held for investigation.

Bryant was said by detectives to have admitted he furnished the youths with a gun after driving them from Lancaster to Columbus.

The boys, Jack Hawley, 17, Columbus, and Norman Stanton, 15, Middletown, told detectives that Bryant smuggled them out of the Lancaster institution in the rumble seat of his automobile gave them a change of clothing and a revolver.

The father of one of the boys called police and Bryant was arrested a few hours later.

Detective Oscar Loos said the youths stole an automobile after escaping from the institution and committed a holdup. They were traced by the gun which they left behind when the intended victim, a woman storekeeper, screamed.

Loos said charges of stealing an automobile would be lodged against both boys. They denied participation in a holdup.

Notified of the escape today by A. R. Harsh, B. I. S. superintendent, Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said he would go to Lancaster to conduct an investigation.

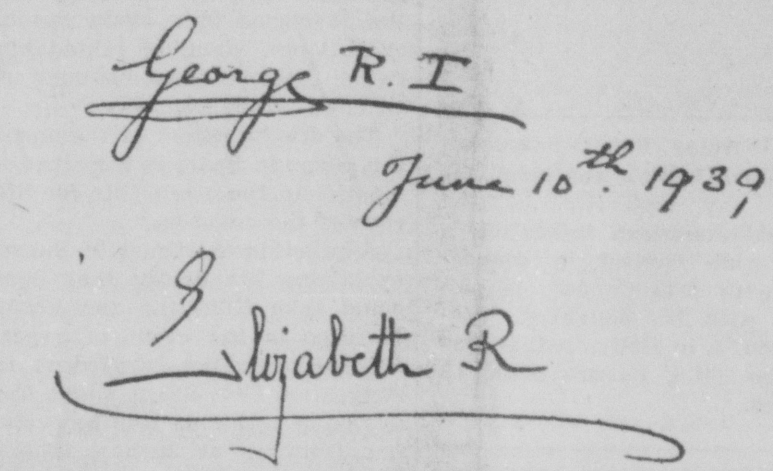

Bryant, an athletic coach and attendant at the reform school, was to have split half the holdup (Continued on Page Two)

MADDUX TWINS' RECORD SHATTERED BY DEATH

The record of the Maddux twins of Philo, Ill., was broken Saturday by the death of David R. Maddux, 94.

David and Joe, natives of Pickaway county, claimed to be the oldest twins in the United States. They were born Feb. 3, 1845, near New Holland. The twins went to Illinois in a covered wagon with their parents when 10 years of age. The twins had been inseparable throughout their lives.

Their last birthday was celebrated with a community banquet in the Philo high school gymnasium.

TOLES TO OFFER PLEA TO CHARGE

Suspect in Noble Crawford Murder Must Face Court Tuesday at 9:30

Lloyd Alonzo Toles, 37, charged with murdering Noble Crawford, 39, of Hooking county, for a small amount of money, will go into Judge Meeker Terwilliger's court at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday to offer a plea of guilty or not guilty. Toles was indicted for second degree murder by a grand jury that questioned more than 25 witnesses in his case.

County officials, who have investigated the stabbing death which took place May 14, believe that Toles will plead innocence, since he has remained firm in his statements that he knows nothing of the killing. If he does deny guilt it is expected that Judge Terwilliger will appoint counsel to defend him, since the suspect is without funds.

Toles is held in the county jail pending arraignment. He was charged with first degree murder and was not eligible for bond because of the charge, but, since the grand jury returned a second degree indictment, he is now eligible for bond, although court attaches believe he will be unable to furnish whatever sum the court fixes for his freedom.

Toles was released early in the Spring from the Lima State hospital for the Criminal Insane. He was serving a robbery term, being transferred from the Ohio penitentiary. Lima officials said in sending him to Circleville that he was "restored to reason."

Other persons indicted by the grand jury will be arraigned at the same hour.

OHIO PUBLISHER FACES NOLAN'S LIBEL CHARGES

STEUBENVILLE, June 12—Charles L. Snyder, 47-year-old publisher of the Port Steuben Free Press, a weekly, was to be arraigned today on criminal libel charges filed by John F. Nolan, chairman of the Jefferson county Democratic Executive Committee.

Snyder was arrested after Nolan took exception to an article appearing in the weekly in which he and Earl D. Applegate, mayor of Steubenville, allegedly were accused of "winking at vice and gambling conditions."

Released on $500 bond, Snyder commented that "the constitution guarantees the right of free speech to every citizen. The proof of a statement and the fact it is not of malicious intent is an adequate defense against libel."

COMMISSIONERS TO TALK OF COUNTY HOME VACANCY

County commissioners, holding their regular weekly meeting Monday, expected to devote a part of the afternoon session to a discussion of the employment of a superintendent of the County Home to succeed the late H. E. Mowery.

Commissioners have discussed the question at several sessions without reaching an agreement. They have about 15 applicants.

PURGE GOES ON IN SPANISH AREA

Victors Eliminating Many Foes Despite End Of Civil War

By Kenneth T. Downs
PERPIGNAN, Franco-Spanish Frontier, June 12—Blood continues to flow in Spain.

Executions since the end of the war run well into four figures. Responsible Nationalists in Burgos, Madrid and Barcelona admit this. They likewise admit that their purge is far from ended.

The executions take place every day throughout Spain, though the war ended more than two months ago. One hundred and fifty executions daily is generally agreed to be a conservative estimate.

Both Spanish and foreign residents in Barcelona told me that little less than 100 individuals are put to death daily in the province of Catalonia alone.

A British manufacturer from Badalona, an industrial town north of Barcelona, told me that an average of 15 are shot each morning in that town.

Executions Private Now
"I can hear the shots from my place," he said. "The executions are held in private now, though (Continued on Page Two)"

PRIME MINISTER ASSERTS PEACE TALK FAR AWAY

LONDON, June 12—An intimation that much remains to be done before a world peace conference is practicable was given to the House of Commons by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today.

Questioned regarding the chances of calling such a conference, Chamberlain said: "A conference on outstanding international problems could succeed only if the participating governments sincerely desire a just settlement and if confidence in the undertakings will be observed."

"His Majesty's government will do its best to promote such confidence."

The question was the result of recent suggestions in the British press that Chamberlain again was toying with the idea of "appeasement."

THREE MOTORISTS FACING TRAFFIC INFRACTION FINES

Three arrests of motorists were made during the weekend by city police.

Arthur Shields, 39, of 188 S. 20th street, Columbus, posted $20 bond Monday to appear Tuesday at 7 p. m. on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested at 3:15 a. m. on Court street. The police report says he was driving between 60 and 65 miles an hour.

Harley Reid, 57, of Laurelville, posted $20 bond to report Monday at 7 p. m. on a similar charge. He was arrested Saturday at 9:10 p. m.

Gerald McQuirt, 19, of Elm avenue, posted $5 bond on a charge of running a red light at Court and Main streets early Monday.

President Warns Graduating Class of Dangers Facing Weaker Nations

COOPERATION NEED CITED

Roosevelt Discusses Feeling That Prevails Between U. S. and Britain

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12—The recent fate of "undefended nations," President Roosevelt declared today, requires "still greater emphasis on the vitalization of our defense."

"When the supreme test of war comes—and I hope it never will—an army to be effective, must command the cooperation of all elements in national life."

This was the significant burden of the message the American commander-in-chief delivered to the 1939 graduating class of the U. S. Military Academy.

Equally significantly, this broadcast message came hard on the heels of the departure of King George VI of England, who, with his vivacious queen, took Canada and this country by storm on their goodwill tour.

Diplomas, Then Address

Future officers of the American army had barely received their diplomas and single shoulder-bars when Mr. Roosevelt launched into a brief, but carefully-thought-out analysis of world affairs.

The President did not name the dictator states, but by strong inference he pointed an accusing finger at them.

He frankly and brutally analyzed the dire progress of implements of war through the machine age for the graduating cadets and persuasively suggested to the nation that should any crisis come he "must command the cooperation of all elements in national life."

There was no mention of Hitler and Mussolini. There was a distinct mention of the British royalty just left. But the President looked earnestly into the ranks of the grey-clad West Pointers and said:

"Leadership has meaning only as it brings about cooperation. When men are working on a great problem, but must work by themselves, or in small groups without close contact, there is danger that they may not pull in the same direction."

"Cooperation means discipline, not meticulous though unthinking obedience to guard-room technique, nor blind mass cooperation (Continued on Page Two)"

OHIO MAN TIED TO TREE, ROBBED BY OUTLAW PAIR

WAUSEON, June 12—Two armed bandits who reportedly kidnapped and robbed Earl Nugent, 36, and left him tied to a tree in a woods still were at large today.

Sheriff Harley Loveland said Nugent told him the men entered his auto as he was getting in and forced him to drive them to a woods just off a main road nearby. There, Nugent explained, the men took $10 from him, tied him to a tree and, after exchanging the license plates on the car, drove away.

U.S. MOVES TO CONSTRUCT NEW AIR FORCE BY 1941

WASHINGTON, June 12—Moving swiftly to translate the authorized military aviation expansion program into reality, the house appropriations committee today favorably reported a supplemental appropriations bill carrying funds and contractual authorizations to put the entire increase of 3,032 planes in the air by June 30, 1941.

Open Golf Title Won By Nelson

Young Reading, Pa., Shooter Edges Craig Wood by Three Strokes

PHILADELPHIA, June 12—Byron Nelson, a long-legged young Texan playing out of Reading, Pa., today won the National Open golf championship today by subduing and almost swamping Craig Wood, husky, hard-hitting Mamaroneck, N. Y., veteran in the second 18-hole playoff for the title long since relinquished by Ralph Guldahl, another Texan.

Nelson's margin of victory in a dogged struggle under a broiling sun witnessed by 3,500 Monday early-risers was three strokes. Nelson playing the tough, rough and tumble layout in 70, one over par and Wood taking 73 strokes to bring to a conclusion a tournament that went a record-tying distance.

They previously finished in a deadlock at 284 with Denny Shute, the solemn man from Huntington, W. Va., but he was eliminated yesterday in the fourth 18-hole playoff, wherefore Nelson and Wood had at each other today in this round, with Nelson the master from the outset. In fact, there never seemed to be much doubt as to the ultimate outcome after Nelson had out-lasted Wood yesterday with a game 18-hole finish.

Shooting a sub-par 33 to the turn today, Nelson led at that point by three strokes and clung to it safely through the gruelling stretch run, over the last nine, which both played in 37, two over par figures.

NAZIS MAY SEND ARMY TO OCCUPY SLOVAKIAN AREA

LONDON, June 12—Early German occupation of Slovakia was predicted today by occupants of three Slovak military airplanes landing at the Dublin military airport in central Poland, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw.

The six occupants of the planes stated that German troops were being concentrated on the Slovak border.

DANZIG, June 12—Arrest of a Polish customs inspector on espionage charges, confirmed today by official German quarters, gave rise to new fears the controversy between the Reich and Poland over return of the free city to Germany may be re-kindled.

The customs inspector, identified only by his last name, Lipinski, was accused by Nazi controlled Danzig authorities of attempting to kidnap Nazi storm troopers while enroute to Poland and persuade them to treason.

Poland is expected to demand Lipinski's immediate release. Warsaw has already taken a strong stand in the matter of customs administration with a note to the Danzig Nazi senate rejecting that body's demands for a reduction in the personnel of customs posts in the free city. The arrest is believed to be the Nazi answer to Poland's attitude.

Poland has charge of Danzig's customs regulation by authority of the League of Nations.

MEXICAN RIOTERS JAILED AFTER ATTACK ON PLANE

MEXICO CITY, June 12—Fifty rioters who threw mud and stones at a U. S. Army bomber which brought back the body of Mexican hero-flier Francisco Sarabia in a violent anti-American demonstration were in jail today.

The riot broke out at the air field following rumors American sabotage was responsible for the plane crash Wednesday in Washington in which the Mexican Lindbergh was killed.

Troops battled with Mexican students who later rushed American students at a football game and engaged in a free for all fight.

A diplomatic protest will probably be lodged with the Mexican government by American Ambassador Joseph Daniels.

Fierce Debate Over 60-Day Payless Furlough Nears In Lower House

WASHINGTON, June 12—Aroused by disclosures in its investigation, the house appropriations deficiency subcommittee today girded itself for a bitter fight to "reform" the W. P. A. during consideration of President Roosevelt's relief program for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Led by Acting Chairman Woodrum (D) of Virginia, the subcommittee planned to follow its victory earlier in the session in reducing W. P. A. funds by writing restrictions into law designed to effect economy and curb alleged waste of funds.

A bill based on Mr. Roosevelt's $1,700,000,000 relief program is slated to be thrust before the house for debate on Wednesday. Congressional leaders will seek to get the bill to the White House by July 1.

The house was caught between two fires as it prepared to act on the bill. The administration, on the one hand, was fighting attempts to restrict activities of the W. P. A. through a series of administrative amendments. On the other hand, a house "liberal bloc" and the workers alliance were battling to increase the President's recommendation to insure an average of 3,000,000 W. P. A. jobs during the year.

Average To Be Cut

The President's proposal calls for a sharp reduction in W. P. A. It would cut the average of workers during the year to slightly over 2,000,000. It is based on an anticipated rise in private employment.

The most far-reaching administrative amendment agreed to by the subcommittee—and which threatens to provoke fierce debate—requires W. P. A. workers to take 60-day payless vacations after being on the rolls for 18 months.

The plan is based on a reported recommendation by Col. Francis P. Harrington, W. P. A. administrator, for rotation of W. P. A. employment as long as the federal government fails to provide for all jobs. He is known to have urged the committee to write a rotation provision in the law, but it is uncertain whether he approved the exact plan.

The economy-minded house subcommittee also tentatively planned for a three-man administrative board, reduction of President Roosevelt's request for the National Youth Administration from $123,000,000 to $81,000,000. (Continued on Page Two)

ARGUMENT OVER BEER FATAL TO CINCINNATI MAN

CINCINNATI, June 12—Police held Louis Wolke today for investigation following the fatal shooting of Nicholas Dregen, 42, in an argument over beer.

Wolke told police that Dregen and another man went to his home to borrow money for beer. When he refused the loan the pair swore at him, Wolke said, and he fired a revolver at them, striking Dregen.

LAW OFFICES LOOTED OF $15.50 DURING WEEKEND

The law offices of Tom A. Renick, N. Court street, were burglarized during the weekend and about $15.50 stolen from Mr. Renick's desk. Other desks in the office were rifled.

Entrance to Mr. Renick's office is believed to have been made through an adjoining office where some plastering was being done. It is believed a door in the adjoining office had been left unlocked.

WAUSEON, June 12—Two armed bandits who reportedly kidnaped and robbed Earl Nugent, 36, and left him tied to a tree in a woods still were at large today.

Sheriff Harley Loveland said Nugent told him the men entered his auto as he was getting in and forced him to drive them to a woods just off a main road nearby. There, Nugent explained, the men took $10 from him, tied him to a tree and, after exchanging the license plates on the car, drove away.

U.S. MOVES TO CONSTRUCT NEW AIR FORCE BY 1941

WASHINGTON, June 12—Moving swiftly to translate the authorized military aviation expansion program into reality, the house appropriations committee today favorably reported a supplemental appropriations bill carrying funds and contractual authorizations to put the entire increase of 3,032 planes in the air by June 30, 1941.

Open Golf Title Won By Nelson

Young Reading, Pa., Shooter
Edges Craig Wood by Three Strokes

PHILADELPHIA, June 12—Byron Nelson, a long-legged young Texan playing out of Reading, Pa., today won the National Open golf championship today by subduing and almost swamping Craig Wood, husky, hard-hitting Mamaroneck, N. Y., veteran in the second 18-hole playoff for the title long since relinquished by Ralph Guldahl, another Texan.

Nelson's margin of victory in a dogged struggle under a broiling sun witnessed by 3,500 Monday early-risers was three strokes, Nelson playing the tough, rough and tumble layout in 70, one over par and Wood taking 73 strokes to bring to a conclusion a tournament that went a record-tying distance.

They previously finished in a deadlock at 284 with Denny Shute, the solemn man from Huntington, W. Va., but he was eliminated yesterday in the fourth 18-hole playoff, wherefore Nelson and Wood had at each other today in this round, with Nelson the master from the outset. In fact, there never seemed to be much doubt as to the ultimate outcome after Nelson had out-lasted Wood yesterday with a game 18-hole finish.

Shooting a sub-par 33 to the turn today, Nelson led at that point by three strokes and clung to it safely through the gruelling stretch run, over the last nine, which both played in 37, two over par figures.

NAZIS MAY SEND ARMY TO OCCUPY SLOVAKIAN AREA

LONDON, June 12—Early German occupation of Slovakia was predicted today by occupants of three Slovak military airplanes landing at the Deblin military airport in central Poland, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw.

The six occupants of the planes stated that German troops were being concentrated on the Slovak border.

DANZIG, June 12—Arrest of a Polish customs inspector on espionage charges, confirmed today by official German quarters, gave rise to new fears the controversy between the Reich and Poland over return of the free city to Germany may be re-kindled.

The customs inspector, identified only by his last name, Lipinski, was accused by Nazi controlled Danzig authorities of attempting to kidnap Nazi storm troopers while enroute to Poland and persuade them to treason.

Poland is expected to demand Lipinski's immediate release. Warsaw has already taken a strong stand in the matter of customs administration with a note to the Danzig Nazi senate rejecting that body's demands for a reduction in the personnel of customs posts in the free city. The arrest is believed to be the Nazi answer to Poland's attitude.

Poland has charge of Danzig's customs regulation by authority of the League of Nations.

MEXICAN RIOTERS JAILED AFTER ATTACK ON PLANE

MEXICO CITY, June 12—Fifty rioters who threw mud and stones at a U. S. Army bomber which brought back the body of Mexican hero-flier Francisco Sarabias in a violent anti-American demonstration were in jail today.

The riot broke out at the air field following rumors American sabotage was responsible for the plane crash Wednesday in Washington in which the Mexican Lindbergh was killed.

Troops battled with Mexican students who later rushed American students at a football game and engaged in a free for all fight.

A diplomatic protest will probably be lodged with the Mexican government by American Ambassador Josephus Daniels.

Fierce Debate Over 60-Day
Payless Furlough Nears
In Lower House

WASHINGTON, June 12—Aroused by disclosures in its investigation, the house appropriations deficiency subcommittee today girded itself for a bitter fight to "reform" the W. P. A. during consideration of President Roosevelt's relief program for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Led by Acting Chairman Woodrum (D) of Virginia, the subcommittee planned to follow its victory earlier in the session in reducing W. P. A. funds by writing restrictions into law designed to effect economy and curb alleged waste of funds.

A bill based on Mr. Roosevelt's $1,700,000,000 relief program is slated to be thrust before the house for debate on Wednesday. Congressional leaders will seek to get the bill to the White House by July 1.

The house was caught between two fires as it prepared to act on the bill. The administration, on the one hand, was fighting attempts to restrict activities of the W. P. A. through a series of administrative amendments. On the other hand, a house "liberal bloc" and the workers alliance were battling to increase the President's recommendation to insure an average of 3,000,000 W. P. A. jobs during the year.

Average To Be Cut

The President's proposal calls for a sharp reduction in W. P. A. It would cut the average of workers during the year to slightly over 2,000,000. It is based on an anticipated rise in private employment.

The most far-reaching administrative amendment agreed to by the subcommittee—and which threatens to provoke fierce debate—requires W. P. A. workers to take 60-day payless vacations after being on the rolls for 18 months.

The plan is based on a reported recommendation by Col. Francis P. Harrington, W. P. A. administrator, for rotation of W. P. A. employment as long as the federal government fails to provide for all jobless. He is known to have urged the committee to write a rotation provision in the law, but it is uncertain whether he approved the exact plan.

The economy-minded house subcommittee also tentatively planned for a three-man administrative board, reduction of President Roosevelt's request for the National Youth Administration from $123,000,000 to $81,000,000, ear-

ARGUMENT OVER BEER FATAL TO CINCINNATI MAN

CINCINNATI, June 12—Police held Louis Wolke today for investigation following the fatal shooting of Nicholas Dregen, 42, in an argument over beer.

Wolke told police that Dregen and another man went to his home to borrow money for beer. When he refused the loan the pair swore at him, Wolke said, and he fired a revolver at them, striking Dregen.

LAW OFFICES LOOTED OF $15.50 DURING WEEKEND

The law offices of Tom A. Renick, N. Court street, were burglarized during the weekend and about $15.50 stolen from Mr. Renick's desk. Other desks in the office were rifled.

Entrance to Mr. Renick's office is believed to have been made through an adjoining office where some plastering was being done. It is believed a door in the adjoining office had been left unlocked.

of a Macedonian phalanx or the whole close order attack."

The newest second lieutenants, U. S. A., undoubtedly reviewed their recent history to ascertain any possible allusion to the Rome-Berlin axis which has all Europe in a fever of war.

Recent Conflicts Cited

"Recent conflicts in Europe, the Far East and Africa bear witness to the fact that the individual soldier remains the controlling factor," continued the President in the sweltering West Point armory. "The tactics of the future intensify, rather than diminish, the necessity for high qualities of individual leadership."

Turning to the four-day visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, just concluded late last night, and referring to the goodwill which exists between the United States and Great Britain, Mr. Roosevelt said of that highly successful tour:

"It's significance lay in the fact that friendship could exist between the two countries since both were without fear. To achieve that result, strength is needed; strength which comes, not from arms alone, but from restraint, understanding and co-operation which in turn are the product of trained and disciplined minds."

Thus did the President apparently warn the totalitarian states that America and Britain had affairs in common and at the same time call on citizens of the United States to back his international policy.

"With us," said the commander-in-chief, "the army does not stand for aggression, domination, or fear."

He then softened his address to point out that the American army had become "a corps d'élite of highly trained men" who were available "to assist, and to construct, when battles have to be waged against the more impersonal foes of disaster, disease, or distress."

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at West Point at 10:30 a. m., after a fast motor run down from their Hyde Park home.

21 Guns Boom

Brigadier General Jay L. Benedict, superintendent, met the official party at the gate as the customary 21 guns boomed.

The President was led immediately into the armory where the corps of cadets, waiting their precious diplomas, stood at rigid and colorful attention—their admiring relatives and girl friends making a still more colorful border.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, June 12 — MONDAY'S astrological forecast holds some peculiar or subtle phases in which affairs may be best activated by deep, clever or undercover strategies or secret understandings with those in place power. Elders assist and an advancement may call for change or travel. Elders in the home have significance.

Those whose birthday it is may accomplish their cherished objectives by strategem, shrewdness, craft or secret agreements with superior or elders. Many aspects of subtlety and secrecy prevail. Change may be involved in new arrangements or in promotion. Personal popularity with elderly females is seen.

A child born on this day may be deep and subtle, gaining honors and preferment from elders and superiors. It should be happy and prosperous in life.

YOUNG CYCLIST IN COURT AFTER MANY VIOLATIONS

Clarence S. Tyler, 17, of Watt street, was lectured by Judge Lemuel Weldon, Monday, for operating a motorcycle Sunday afternoon on Watt street in violation of "several" laws.

Constable Walter Heise said Sawyer had no certificate of title, no license plates for the motorcycle, it had no muffler, he had no driver's license and he was driving the outfit recklessly.

Judge Weldon said Sawyer promised to get the necessary certificates and ride carefully in the future.

marking of $125,000,000 for P. W. A. projects and other slight reductions.

In spite of the earmarking of funds for P. W. A., it is claimed by committee members that virtually the full W. P. A. fund sought by the President is provided. The P. W. A. fund, it was said, would be used for heavy construction projects now undertaken by W. P. A.

Increase Fight Looms

A "public works bloc," however, is planning a fight on the floor to increase the $125,000,000 fund to at least a half-billion dollars. House Republicans planned to hold a conference to map the party stand on relief.

Rep. Taber of New York, ranking Republican on the appropriations committee, proposed that a administration of relief be shifted back to the states. He urged support for a bill changing the name of the W. P. A. to the Unemployment Relief Administration, appropriating $125,000,000 and making grants to states to care for the unemployed.

430 GALLONS OF CREAM SPILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

Pearl Gray Escapes With Bruises in Accident West of City

AUTO'S LIGHTS BLAMED

Amanda Woman Bumped on Head in Sideswiping Wreck Early Sunday

Approximately 430 gallons of cream were spilled Saturday night when a truck of the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative association left the Island road about a half mile west of Circleville and turned on its side. Pearl Gray, Lancaster pike and Fairview avenue, escaped with bruises.

The truck was being driven to Circleville from Washington C. H. It was loaded with 49 ten-gallon cans of cream. All but about 60 gallons were spilled. The truck motor caught fire after the vehicle overturned but was quickly extinguished with emergency equipment. Damage to the truck was slight.

The accident happened about 11:30 o'clock. Mr. Gray said he was blinded by lights from an approaching car and crowded off the highway. The cans of cream went out through the top when the truck turned on its side.

Mrs. John Walters, of Amanda, suffered a bump on the head at 2:45 a. m. Sunday when the car in which she was riding left Route 22 about three and a half miles east of Circleville. Mrs. Walters was treated in Berger hospital by Dr. H. D. Jackson, then discharged.

The sheriff's department said Mrs. Walters was riding in a car driven by Harry Walters, 24, of Circleville Route 5. Officers were told the car was sideswiped and crowded off the road.

The driver of the second car stopped at the scene of the accident but his name was not learned by officers.

AT THE CIRCLE

Timely is the word for Monogram's "Streets of New York," which is now playing through Tuesday at the Circle theatre with Jackie Cooper in the starring role. Timely because the film deals with the American Way, demonstrating that from rags to riches is still possible in one country, that right does not depend upon might.

and that, even in the face of tremendous odds, we can still find inspiration from the lives of great men.

Jackie Cooper is excellent as Jimmy Keenan, the idealistic young American who pretended to be plenty tough. Sharing acting honors is little Martin Spellman, as Gimp, the 12 year old realist who couldn't see any sense in being honest and good, because "where does it get you?" Spellman, now under contract to Monogram, is easily the most important child discovery since Shirley Temple.

Dick Purcell is outstanding as Jimmy's racketeer brother, and George Irving as kindly Judge Carroll.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The stirring and dramatic experiences of a beautiful French girl, who finds herself locked behind the cold, gray walls of a reform school for girls, located on the outskirts of Paris, is poignantly and movingly told in Alexander Korda's "Prison Without Bars," which comes next Wednesday to the Cliftona theatre, with Corinne Luchaire, Mr. Korda's newest discovery, playing the heroine of the story.

Miss Luchaire, blonde, svelte, and beautiful, is a native Parisienne, and was discovered by Mr. Korda when he was visiting the French capital and saw the young actress in a French film. She is only seventeen years of age and speaks English perfectly.

The supporting cast of "Prison Without Bars," headed by Barry Barnes and Edna Best, also features a trio of newcomers—Mary Morris, Lorraine Clewes and Sally 35, contractor and pilot of the low-wing monoplane, and Richard D. Kidder, 19, his passenger. Both were of Racine, Wis. Kidder was graduated last week from the University of South Carolina.

YOUNG MOTHER OF THREE SLAIN

Columbus Man Kills Woman, Slashes Wrists, Throat To End Own Life

COLUMBUS, June 12—Police records today listed as a murder and suicide the deaths of a 31-year-old "model wife" and mother of three children and a 37-year-old man, whose bodies were found in a rooming house.

Discovered 24 hours after the tragedy, the two were identified as Mrs. Dorothy Francis, a sewing machine operator in a mattress factory, and Clifford T. Junkins, a fellow employee.

Authorities said Mrs. Francis had been shot to death and that the man had taken his own life by slashing his wrists and throat with a pocket knife and shooting himself.

The only motive offered by investigators was that the mother had gone to Junkins room and that the man became enraged when she repulsed his advances. Her body was found on the floor, dressed in street clothes. Junkins' body was found on a bed nearby.

Charles Francis, 32, the husband, reportedly told police:

"She was a model wife and loved the children. She didn't drink or smoke, and I never knew of her running around."

AT THE GRAND

Henry Fonda doesn't want to be like the old character actor who identified himself so unflinchingly with Lincoln that a wag was moved to observe that "he'd never be happy until he got into the White House."

For once Fonda had completed his characterization of "Young Mr. Lincoln" in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of that title, currently showing at the Grand theatre, he wanted to let it stand on its merits and go on to other characterizations.

It's the greatest role any actor could ever undertake," Fonda said, "but after I finish it I want to consider that my one and only attempt."

Fonda was particularly well-equipped to portray Lincoln in his romantic, eventful, actionful youth in the backwoods town of Springfield, Illinois. For the original screen play by Lamar Trotti offers not the Great Emancipator, not the President of the critical days of the Republic with the fate of the nation weighing him down, but the Lincoln story that has never been told—the story of the young jack-leg lawyer, who wrestled with the boys, had an endless fund of funny stories and fell in love.

The evidence was given the committee by Edwin M. Curry, graduate instructor in political science at the University of West Virginia, who personally uncovered it while collecting data for a thesis on Fascism in America.

Young Curry wrote Deatherage indicating interest in his organization, later visited Deatherage at his headquarters in St. Albans, W. Va. There he saw a U. S. mailbag filled with hundreds of copies of a speech made by Reynolds in the Senate on February 22. In response to discreet questions, Deatherage revealed that he was distributing the speeches under Reynolds' congressional mailing frank.

In other words, Deatherage was using Reynolds' free mailing privilege to distribute Reynolds' speech to Camellia followers.

Curry immediately wrote to Reynolds asking him about his connections with Deatherage. From Wesley E. McDonald, Reynolds' secretary, who is also secretary of The Vindicator, Reynolds weekly, he received an answer saying:

"We have had some correspondence with him (Deatherage) and it appears that he is thoroughly acquainted with what Senator Reynolds is trying to accomplish." McDonald concluded by urging Curry to join the Vindicator and added, "There are absolutely no Jews attached to the membership of this organization."

LOST LAW DECREE

It is not supposed to be known, but the University of Kentucky abruptly withdrew an honorary degree from Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed last week. Here is the inside story of what happened:

Two days before commencement, the University registrar issued proof sheets of the commencement program on which were the names of three notables receiving honorary Doctor of Law degrees. One of them was Justice Reed, a native of Kentucky.

An hour later the proof sheets were hastily recalled by the registrar's office and Reed's name scratched out. The explanation offered was that a message had been received from Reed that he could not attend the commencement, because the session of the Supreme Court had been extended another week. Dr. Frank McVey, University president, had ordered that if Reed could not come for his degree, he would not get it.

We doubt if harsh treatment toward these boys would help a tiny bit. To us it was an exhibition of careful driving. On several occasions we have had as many as two thousand or more autos parked in and about the park and village at one time without an accident of any sort in their getaway. Careful driving did the trick.

THE NORTHERN FRONTIER
"GO NORTH, YOUNG MAN," says King George VI to the people of Western Canada. Let them find their fortune in growing up with the northern country. "You have only touched the fringes of the North," he tells them. "There is a field of enterprise for you which will take generations to exhaust." Doubtless he is right. In the Yukon alone there are not only great quantities of gold and other valuable minerals, plus furs and fisheries, but 5,000,000,000 tons of coal awaiting development. That should keep frontiersmen there warm for quite a while, when they have used up the wood, and should provide power enough for a few centuries. And the Yukon territory is but a small part of the vast Canadian Northland, reaching to Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean. It may comfort the pioneers, too, to learn that the climate is warming up in that region, as the Ice Age recedes. As much, perhaps, as two or three degrees per century. All this reasoning applies more strongly to our own territory of Alaska, which is more accessible than the Yukon, much warmer near the Pacific Coast, and probably has greater riches.

PEACE FOR TWO YEARS!
ITALY, as John T. Whitaker reports in the Chicago News in a dispatch from Rome, has really been at war for several years. It began with Ethiopia and continued with Spain, topping things off by grabbing Albania. A halt seems to have been called, perhaps to salt down the successes already achieved, perhaps because Il Duce has found war too costly a diversion. At any rate, Italian high officials are said to agree with Mussolini that there is no cause in sight immediately worth fighting for. "I can tell you that there will be a period of peace," said a Fascist leader, "because I know what Germany will do and I know what Italy will do. We do not want war. And I do not think that either Poland or France will attack us. There will not be a war in the next two years unless the democracies attack us." Extensive preparations for a world's fair near Rome two years hence offer other evidence of Italy's peaceful hopes and intentions. Perhaps even more striking is the fact, not generally known, that during the last year Italy has placed less emphasis on rearmament and stocking of war reserves and more on an effort to develop her trade.

World At A Glance

JAMES A. FARRELL, chairman of Uncle Sam's National Foreign Trade council and former president of the United States Steel corporation, and Dr. Edgard L. G. Prochnik, who was Austrian minister in Washington until Herr Hitler gobbled his home country, made a couple of extremely interesting talks the other day in connection with Georgetown university's sesquicentennial celebration. Chairman Farrell's essential point was that "commercial policy has become an instrument of diplomacy". He didn't quote State Secretary Cordell Hull, but he certainly is in agreement with the latter. I knew Secretary Hull quite well when he was in the house of representatives and later in the senate. In all of a good many interviews that I had with him he discussed economics. I took it that was his specialty. His selection by President Roosevelt as head of our foreign office struck me, at the time, as rather queer. I'd have thought his appointment to the secretaryship of the treasury or the commerce department as perfectly appropriate, but he never had seemed to me much interested in overseas affairs. But subsequently, in a chat I had with him as state secretary,

WASHINGTON—A few days after Jack Garner's friends carefully planted stories that he was a do-or-die presidential candidate, a friend of Roosevelt's dropped in to ask the President about the Garner boom. Roosevelt's only comment was:

"I have always said that I was for a progressive candidate. I still am."

He did not mention Garner's name, but he didn't have to. It was more than obvious that he was 100 percent against Garner.

Roosevelt's friend then came out point blank and asked him how he felt about a third term. "Is there any physical, mental, or spiritual reason," he asked, "which might prevent you from running again?"

The President replied that he was mentally and physically absolutely fit, then added: "But I'm like a ball player who's been pitching a long time. I ought to have a rest."

He did not, however, close the door to renomination.

CIO PLANS

Three far-reaching proposals will be considered by the CIO executive council when it meets in Washington this week: (1) The question of whether it should launch a 60-60 pension drive—that is, $60 a month for all persons over 60.

(2) A new organizing campaign to set up CIO unions in AFL strongholds, particularly the building trades.

(3) A legal offensive against the AFL, in the form of damage suits against AFL unions which have been found by the National Labor Relations Board to have entered into agreements with employers against CIO unions.

Under the law, the Board has no power beyond dissolving these secret agreements. But the plan to be voted on by the CIO executive council would be to strike at the AFL in civil suits claiming heavy damages, on the ground that CIO members suffered pecuniary losses from the AFL's alleged illegal activities.

Chief significance of organization and damage suit proposals is to dim the prospects of peace between the rival labor camps.

BRITISH NAVY

The private opinion of U. S. naval officers concurs with British indignation over the failure to rescue 99 men from the submarine Thetis.

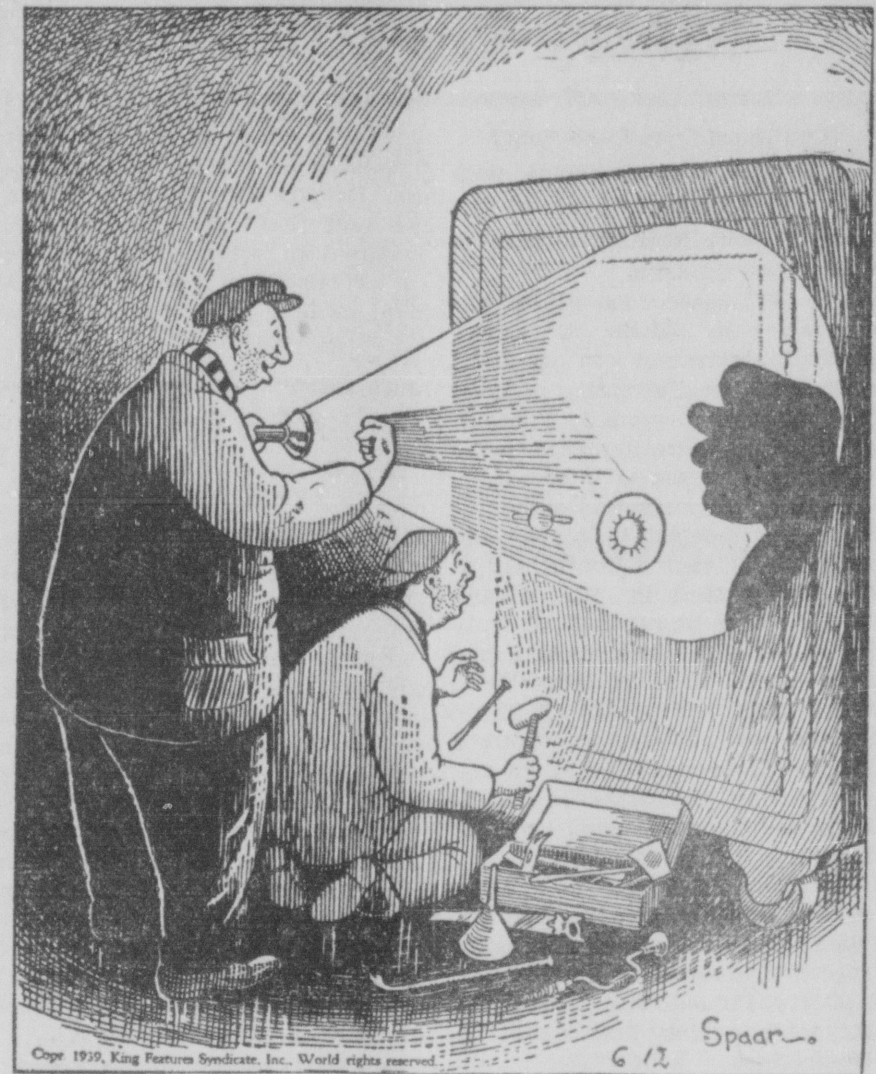

Since the Thetis disaster followed less than two weeks after the Squalus sinking, American officers followed the British tragedy with intense interest, and came to the very definite conclusion that the British Navy was woefully unprepared and completely botched the rescue job.

What may be more important, U. S. naval experts have seen increasing evidence that the British Navy has slumped to greater depths of inefficiency, and is by no means the vaunted queen of the seas it once was.

Giving Soy Bean A Place in Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE CULTIVATION of the soy bean is increasing all over the country, and the Department of Agriculture is of the opinion that such cultivation should be encouraged.

It is undoubtedly a useful food. As is the case in the United States with anything that begins to be advocated, exaggerated claims are being made for it. It is said to rejuvenate the aged and the feeble, and to be a curative agent for puny and sick babies. These statements are only relatively true. The soy bean should, however, have more of a place in the domestic dietary.

Its chemical structure is interesting. Compared to similar foods, Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is quite different from wheat flour or from other legumes. It is very low in starch and four times richer in protein than wheat. The protein is said to be a better protein than any other vegetable protein because it is absorbed better and approximates animal protein in its quality of ready utilization.

Considerable Fat
It has a great deal of fat, 20 times more than wheat, and this fat is assimilated and used in the body rather than stored. It is therefore recommended as a food that is valuable in reducing body weight. In minerals it is well balanced, and it also contains vitamins A, B, C, D and G.

It is, however, the protein of soy bean which has claimed most attention from nutritionists. This protein is not as acid as animal proteins, such as are contained in meat, and it contains little uric acid.

Protein is a necessary ingredient of any balanced diet. Some proteins, however, are better than others. Vegetarians claim to be able to obtain all the proteins they need from vegetables, but most vegetarians eat also milk and eggs, which contain animal protein. Animal protein, in general, is more

SYNOPSIS
SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, had a childhood romance with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific. To Perryville flies BOB KENNEDY, close friend of Jack's, receiving a broken leg in a crash at the airport.

YESTERDAY: Judy tells Sarah Anne she is going away because she fell in love "with the wrong aviator guy." Later Sarah Anne and Jack visit the hospital.

CHAPTER NINE

IT WAS JUDITH who had driven past the hospital, and her wide brown-gold eyes had seen the two who came down the broad, white steps together. She stepped on the gas, let the speedometer mount to 70, 75, 80. She wanted to get away from herself. Not in the sky tonight. Jack was up there, would be there always for her now.

So she raced down the night and her thoughts would not stay behind. So much had happened today, and yet—nothing, nothing at all. That was the irony of life. Why couldn't a bugle blow or a curtain fall when something ended or something began? Why did events suddenly take shape from the fog or mist?

It had happened that morning, when Jack came to meet her for lunch. His face was jubilant and he strode on his own clouds. Because he must confide in someone he had taken her hands and held them as he said: "I'm to manage the airport! And we're starting the school!" He broke off ruefully. "It's every fellow's dream, but I let myself go into a tailspin of double whoopee. You're a girl, you may not see it—"

She interrupted, indignant, then—"I do see it! Don't I fly? And now—oh, now, you won't be going away!" She hadn't meant to sound so reverent, so grateful, so adoring. Hadn't realized that she had until he looked at her quizzically.

"You're glad?" "More glad than I have any right to be!" That was meant to be said with laughter, but the laughter didn't come. So the words stood out, clear and distinct, as though a sky-writer had inscribed them. The tall young man looked at her seriously, questioningly. Then his voice became coolly impersonal, as though it did not know how to respond. "Shall we hunt a place for lunch?"

Lunch had been a quiet meal in a large restaurant. There were people everywhere, but no one talked much. Judy and Jack might have been any two people at a table for two. A boss and his secretary. A brother and a sister. A husband and a wife who couldn't think of anything to say, or couldn't see the need of saying anything. Certainly there was nothing to make the waiter think that the girl had told the boy she cared for him more than she should. At least, so Judy thought, as her car leaped down the miles.

Jack had been busy all afternoon, going over charts and maps and contracts. She had idled the time away at a movie, looking into shop windows, wishing it was time to leave. Then, when Jack met her, he shook his head.

"One more matter to take up. The conference is called for eight. It's a good night and the trip's short. Can't we wait over?" In the afternoon's excitement she thought her admission had faded from his mind. She was relieved and began to talk and laugh again. After all, couldn't he think he had misunderstood?

So they had gone to dinner, at a small, dusky restaurant, this time where blue candles burned low on tables covered with yellow cloths, and there were booths, discreetly hidden from the other diners. Even now Judy didn't know how the subject had come up, why it had been necessary to mention Sarah Anne's name.

But after a while she couldn't misunderstand that baffled, young, hurt look in Jack's eyes. Even his words didn't surprise her.

"Judy, you're one of the two make things go off more smoothly."

But subsequently, in a chat I had with him as state secretary, he presented the proposition from a different angle.

"The longer I deal with international relationships," he said, "the clearer it becomes to me that they all are based upon economic considerations."

In other words, he's an international economist or an economic internationalist—and they're one and the same subject. Anyway, he thinks so, and Chairman Farrell concurs, evidently.

Maybe we can keep out of foreign wars, says Farrell, but we can't keep out of world economics.

INSULATION VS. ISOLATION

Farrell favors insulation against war, but he maintains that economic isolation is impossible.

He cites figures. He shows that, in 1938, a slack commercial year, the United States still was the world's foremost exporting nation, and that we were third among importers. As importers England and Germany surpassed us, but they're by no means as self-sufficient as we are.

It's ridiculous, Farrell argues, to think that we can upset a contrast of such proportions without raising domestic and international Cain. In itself, reasons Secretary Hull, an attempt of that would start a war. A little peeve of a country, perhaps, could do it, and ruin nobody but itself, but

In breaking down a protein it is found to consist of a number of substances called "amino acids." Not all of the amino acids are found necessarily in one protein, and not all are necessary for human health and nutrition. A good protein should have four, named lysine, cystine, histidine and tryptophane. These four are contained in soy bean flour.

IT WAS Judith who had driven past the hospital, and her wide brown-gold eyes had seen the two who came down the broad, white steps together. She stepped on the gas, let the speedometer mount to 70, 75, 80. She wanted to get away from herself. Not in the sky tonight. Jack was up there, would be there always for her now.

So she raced down the night and her thoughts would not stay behind. So much had happened today, and yet—nothing, nothing at all. That was the irony of life. Why couldn't a bugle blow or a curtain fall when something ended or something began? Why did events suddenly take shape from the fog or mist?

It had happened that morning, when Jack came to meet her for lunch. His face was jubilant and he strode on his own clouds. Because he must confide in someone he had taken her hands and held them as he said: "I'm to manage the airport! And we're starting the school!" He broke off ruefully. "It's every fellow's dream, but I let myself go into a tailspin of double whoopee. You're a girl, you may not see it—"

She interrupted, indignant, then. "I do see it! Don't I fly? And now—" "Oh, now, you won't be going away!" She hadn't meant to sound so reverent, so grateful, so adoring. Hadn't realized that she had until he looked at her quizzically.

"You're glad?" "More glad than I have any right to be!" That was meant to be said with laughter, but the laughter didn't come. So the words stood out, clear and distinct, as though a sky-writer had inscribed them.

The tall young man looked at her seriously, questioning. Then his voice became coolly impersonal, as though it did not know how to respond. "Shall we hunt a place for lunch?"

Lunch had been a quiet meal in a large restaurant. There were people everywhere, but no one talked much. Judy and Jack might have been any two people at a table for two. A boss and his secretary. A brother and a sister. A husband and a wife who couldn't think of anything to say, or couldn't see the need of saying anything. Certainly there was nothing to make the waiter think that the girl had told the boy she cared for him more than she should. At least, so Judy thought, as her car leaped down the miles.

Jack had been busy all afternoon, going over charts and maps and contracts. She had idled the time away at a movie, looking into shop windows, wishing it was time to leave. Then, when Jack met her, he shook his head.

"One more matter to take up. The conference is called for eight. It's a good night and the trip's short. Can't we wait over?"

In the afternoon's excitement she thought her admission had faded from his mind. She was relieved and began to talk and laugh again. After all, couldn't he think he had misunderstood?

So they had gone to dinner, at a small, dusky restaurant, this time where blue candles burned low on tables covered with yellow cloths, and there were booths, discreetly hidden from the other diners. Even now Judy didn't know how the subject had come up, why it had been necessary to mention Sarah Anne's name.

But after a while she couldn't misunderstand that baffled, young, hurt look in Jack's eyes. Even his words didn't surprise her.

"Judy, you're one of the two

"Maybe we are being sentimental," Judy said.

swellest girls I know."

"Thanks." How could she say, "And you're the swellest man I know?"

That had been the beginning, and pretty soon Jack was saying, "How did this happen, Judy? Where did it begin? Why, I love Sarah Anne. In the back of my mind I've always intended to marry her. I can't think of life without her."

"But when I heard your voice on the telephone that night—" That voice that was deeper than most girls' voices, with music in its depths. He remembered the wild impulse to see the girl who possessed it.

"Maybe we are being sentimental," Judy said, and tried to smile. "After all, 24 hours ago you didn't know me!"

"But some things come quickly. Sometimes one is sure . . ." He broke off miserably. "Judy," he cried fiercely, "believe me when I say I love Sarah Anne!"

Looking into the anguish in his eyes, she nodded softly. "Of course you do. And so do I. Finish your coffee and let's go buy her a present."

Judy put her hand on a package on the seat beside her. It was the choker and bracelet she had bought for Sarah Anne. They were made of a dozen strands of crisp, her beads woven together and would go with the silly, adorable linen frock which made the minister's daughter look as though she were going to a party, and couldn't ever have been worn by Judith.

She was remembering how quiet she and Jack had been on the homeward flight, and how steady and grave his eyes had been when he helped her from the plane.

"If it helps any—though what good a roving flyer's opinion is, I don't know—I think you're glorious, Judy."

His words were safe. But his eyes and the touch of his hand on her arm took them and made them perilous.

Anyway, she must forget. How could anything which had happened in the span of a clock remain always? Maybe she needed some sleep.

But during the week that followed Judith seldom went any place where Sarah Anne was likely to be. At first Sarah Anne thought the other girl was busy. Then she began to wonder. But she was too occupied to think about it much.

School ended. She went often to talk to Bob Kennedy.

The Sunday school picnic was being held and she had to count out glasses, plates and cups for the janitor to send out to the picnic grounds. And on top of that, Miss Sarah and Miss Anne Moffet came to town.

Miss Sarah was tall and angular and her face was rugged. "Something like Abraham Lincoln's twin sister would have looked if he had had one," Corinne once said.

Miss Anne was big and heavy and her round eyes beamed in her round face. They had been the best paying members in the church for Christmas. Reverend Melton was preaching at the time of his first child's birth.

"Call her Sarah for me," the deep tones of Miss Sarah advised. "Anne for me," her sister differed. "The child had been named Sarah Anne. Mrs. Melton put her own favorite names away in a mental drawer and hoped she would have another daughter so she could use one of them."

The two sisters had been generous to a fault in sending gifts for Christmas. There were new menements. Lovely fragile hose, French perfume, gold lockets. Things they loved and could never wear. But the actual money for college and camps, about which Sarah Anne dared to dream during her growing-up years, never came. Just Miss Sarah and Miss Anne, for their yearly week at the Inn, after the paragonage family moved to a new town.

But now Sarah Anne did not mind entertaining them. She didn't mind any tasks, for there was Jack, always somewhere in the outskirts of her mind, waiting for her. He was busy with the plans for his installation at the airport and the dinner which the Chamber of Commerce was tendering its famous son. There were newspaper men and photographers coming every day from everywhere. He would wave at Sarah Anne in passing, run in to talk a minute before he hurried away. Life was as gay and bright as a merry-go-round with new horses.

Sarah Anne had a new dress for the formal banquet—a lovely golden color, in taffeta. She awakened the morning of the celebration and hurried to the window. It was a beautiful day. "A perfect day," she murmured.

At five o'clock the telephone rang. It rang with a dreary, apologetic cadence. How she knew that the pattern of the Jay had changed, Sarah Anne had small idea. But when she said, "Yes?" she was not gay, expectant, waiting any longer.

Virginia L. Orr Becomes Bride Of Paul Barrett

Fifty Members Of Families Attend Ceremony

Delphinium in lovely shades of deep blue, pink roses, white hydrangeas and June lilies banked the mantle of the living room in the Orr country home, west of Kingston, before which Miss Virginia Lee Orr became the bride, Saturday, of Mr. Paul Grant Barrett of Chillicothe. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wenden K. Orr, Kingston, the parents of the bridegroom being Mr. and Mrs. Harrison D. Barrett of Boston, Mass.

The Rev. Frank Batterson of the Kingston Methodist church read the nuptial service at 11 a. m. in the presence of fifty members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Fred B. Orr, sister-in-law of the bride, played the Mendelssohn Wedding March as the bridal party entered the room. Miss Jean Elizabeth Maxwell of Bexley, niece of the bride, who served as maid-of-honor, entered first taking her place between the tall cathedral baskets of garden flowers on either side of the improvised altar. Her gown was of pink voile, street length, with which she wore a corsage of flowers in delicate shades of pink and blue.

Dr. E. H. Artman of Kingston served as best man for the bridegroom.

Miss Orr entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a street length costume of white and delphinium blue her corsage and accessories being in harmonizing shades.

After the service, a three course luncheon was served, the guests being served at small tables.

A crystal bowl of delphinium, roses and baby breath centered the bride's table, the places being marked with dainty favors.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett left during the afternoon for a short wedding trip to the Great Lakes. For traveling, the bride chose an ensemble of black and white with accessories to match.

On their return they will establish their home on West Second street, Chillicothe.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Judge and Mrs. Stanley L. Orr and family of Cleveland; Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Maxwell and family of Bexley; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bitzer and family of Grandview; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson and children, Bobby and Martha Sue, Miss Carrie Johnson, Mr. J. W. Johnson of Circleville; Mrs. Fowler Smith, Mrs. Graham Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Agnew, the Misses Ellen and Virginia Smith of Dayton; Mr. Ralph Ater of Frankfurt and Mr. Thomas V. GARDEN-GRAPH

Some perennials and many of the rock garden plants can be propagated this month by means of cuttings after the plants have finished blooming.

When making cuttings of Iberis or Arabis use a piece of new shoot on the old stem, as shown in the Garden-Graph. A sharp knife should be used in making the cuttings so the edge will not be torn or ragged. Many cuttings may be made from each plant. Small cuttings root easier than large ones.

Plant the cutting fairly deep in a mixture of peat and sand. Water the cuttings and keep them shaded for several days by means of paper covers or cloth screens. After the cuttings have developed their own root system they should be transplanted into good garden soil.

GARDEN-GRAPH

Some perennials and many of the rock garden plants can be propagated this month by means of cuttings after the plants have finished blooming.

When making cuttings of Iberis or Arabis use a piece of new shoot on the old stem, as shown in the Garden-Graph. A sharp knife should be used in making the cuttings so the edge will not be torn or ragged. Many cuttings may be made from each plant. Small cuttings root easier than large ones.

Plant the cutting fairly deep in a mixture of peat and sand. Water the cuttings and keep them shaded for several days by means of paper covers or cloth screens. After the cuttings have developed their own root system they should be transplanted into good garden soil.

YANKS AND REDS STANDOUTS FOR LEAGUE HONORS

By International News Service
With almost third of season gone, Yanks and Reds stand out as strongest teams in their leagues.

Sydney Wooderson, king of British runners, arrives today with hope of running four-minute mile.

National Open golf enters second 18-hole playoff with Byron Nelson and Craig Wood as lone survivors.

Baseball's stars descend on Cooperstown, N. Y., for celebration of centennial of founding of game.

Tommy Hitchcock gives grandest performance of career in leading American polo team to 9 to 4 victory over British.

Yesterday's baseball scores: National league — New York 7, Pittsburgh 3 (1st); New York 5, Pittsburgh 4 (2nd); Cincinnati 3, Brooklyn 1 (1st, ten innings); Brooklyn 9, Cincinnati 8 (3rd, 11 innings); Philadelphia 5, St. Louis 4 (1st, eleven innings); St. Louis 4, Philadelphia 1 (2nd); Boston 4, Chicago 3 (1st); Chicago 5, Boston 3 (2nd—six innings account Sunday law).

American League — New York 8, St. Louis 5 (1st); New York 5, St. Louis 1 (2nd); Cleveland 4, Philadelphia 3 (1st); Cleveland 3, Philadelphia 2 (2nd); Chicago 7, Boston 5 (1st); Boston 4, Chicago 3 (2nd); Detroit 6, Washington 3.

RED BIRDS HOLD TIE FOR FIFTH WITH MILWAUKEE

COLUMBUS, June 12—The Columbus Red Birds were tied with Milwaukee for fifth place in the American association today after splitting a double header with the Toledo Mud Hens. Both games ended in a 6 to 5 score.

Kleinke, Bird pitcher, helped win the first game for Columbus when he went to the mound in the eighth and stopped a Toledo rally when the bases were loaded and only one Mud Hen was out.

At Kansas City the circuit-leading Blues split a double header with Milwaukee. With Newt Kimball pitching, the Brewers took the first game 4 to 1. The Blues won 2 to 1.

Louisville was in Indianapolis and took the Indians in a twin contest 6 to 5 and 6 to 3. Minneapolis, still in second place in the association race, beat St. Paul 5 to 2.

DENNY SHUTE'S HOPE FOR P. G. A. MEET VANISHES

CHICAGO, June 12—Last hope that he would be allowed to participate in the Professional Golf Association tournament, at Flushing, N. Y., July 10-15, went glimmering today for Denny Shute of Boston.

Shute's entry reached the P. G. A. office in Chicago two days late, and Tom Walsh, secretary of the association, said:

"This disqualified him... the association is pretty strict about the regulations."

Had he won the National Open tournament at Philadelphia, Shute would automatically have qualified for the P. G. A., but he lost out in the playoff to Byron Nelson and Craig Wood.

INJURED DRIVING RANGE OPERATOR ADVISES WOOD

BRYN MAWR, Pa., June 12—Robert Mossman, the golf ball driving range proprietor who was struck on the head by a brassie shot Craig Wood fired at the 18th green in Sunday's playoff of the National Open golf match, was reported "resting comfortably" today.

After the match, Wood hurried to Bryn Mawr hospital to see Mossman, who quipped:

"Craig, if you'll open the face of that club, you'll cure that hook."

Brooklyn Fans Up and Down As Teams Split; Yanks Take Two More

NEW YORK, June 12 — Both major leagues are idle today so this would appear to be a good time to take stock of events to date.

With almost one third of the season gone, it becomes increasingly evident that the Reds and the Yanks are the strongest teams in their respective leagues. Baseball men expect these teams to have their pennants in the bag by July 4 and the only question at the moment is the size of their lead at the finish.

The Yanks are sweeping through the American League like a typhoon and the Reds, while meeting sterner opposition in their circuit, are almost sure to win the flag.

Both teams have power, good defense, speed, classy pitching, plenty of pep and are ably managed. What more could one ask of a ball club?

The Reds split a doubleheader with the Dodgers yesterday, taking the opener 3-1 in 10 heats and blowing the nightcap in 11 frames, 9-8.

Those were two remarkable games in many respects but not quite as remarkable as the amazing demonstration staged by the capacity crowd of Dodger rooters.

Rooters Story Themselves

The Dodger rooters are almost always a story in themselves. They filled the park before noon when the gates were closed and the only reason 100,000 didn't see the game, is because the Brooklyn park won't hold more than 36,000.

They littered the field with hats, paper and bottles when the Dodgers tied the first game in the ninth and moaned in almost physical agony when young Hugh Casey finally bowed to lucky Walters in the tenth.

But try to picture the mad frenzy of the second game. The Dodgers went into the ninth trailing by three runs and with Johnny No-Hit Vander Meer working, their cause seemed hopeless.

But in a moment they had the bases filled and Babe Phelps, a hitting fool these days, promptly cleared them with a double to tie the score. Right there the fans put on one of the wildest demonstrations ever seen in a ball park.

That scene, however, was mild compared to what happened when Hudson, trapped between third and home when a squeeze went astray, scored on a poor throw from Werber to Lombardi. And that's when the lid really blew off.

The victory kept the Dodgers close on the heels of the Cardinals who had to rally in the ninth to get an even break with the Phils, 4-1, after dropping the opener, 5-4, in 11 innings.

Five For Giants

The Bees took the first from the Cubs, 4-3 and then dropped the second, 5-3. The Giants moved up to fifth place ahead of the floundering Pirates from whom they took a doubleheader, 7-3 and 5-4. That made five straight wins for the Giants who may be on their way at last.

Needless to say, the Yanks, with Ruffing and Hadley going good, had little trouble taking a pair from the lowly Browns, 8-5 and 5-1, and thereby picked up another game on the Red Sox who could only split with the White Sox. The Red Sox lost the second tilt, 4-3.

Cleveland took a pair from the Athletics, 4-3 and 3-2 and the Tigers, who seem to have found themselves, trimmed the Senators, 6-3.

YANKS AND REDS STANDOUTS FOR LEAGUE HONORS

By International News Service
With almost third of season gone, Yanks and Reds stand out as strongest teams in their leagues.

Sydney Wooderson, king of British runners, arrives today with hope of running four-minute mile.

National Open golf enters second 18-hole playoff with Byron Nelson and Craig Wood as lone survivors.

Baseball's stars descend on Cooperstown, N. Y., for celebration of centennial of founding of game.

Tommy Hitchcock gives grandest performance of career in leading American polo team to 9 to 4 victory over British.

Yesterday's baseball scores: National league — New York 7, Pittsburgh 3 (1st); New York 5, Pittsburgh 4 (2nd); Cincinnati 3, Brooklyn 1 (1st, ten innings); Brooklyn 9, Cincinnati 8 (3rd, 11 innings); Philadelphia 5, St. Louis 4 (1st, eleven innings); St. Louis 4, Philadelphia 1 (2nd); Boston 4, Chicago 3 (1st); Chicago 5, Boston 3 (2nd—six innings account Sunday law).

American League — New York 8, St. Louis 5 (1st); New York 5, St. Louis 1 (2nd); Cleveland 4, Philadelphia 3 (1st); Cleveland 3, Philadelphia 2 (2nd); Chicago 7, Boston 5 (1st); Boston 4, Chicago 3 (2nd); Detroit 6, Washington 3.

RED BIRDS HOLD TIE FOR FIFTH WITH MILWAUKEE

COLUMBUS, June 12—The Columbus Red Birds were tied with Milwaukee for fifth place in the American association today after splitting a double header with the Toledo Mud Hens. Both games ended in a 6 to 5 score.

Kleinke, Bird pitcher, helped win the first game for Columbus when he went to the mound in the eighth and stopped a Toledo rally when the bases were loaded and only one Mud Hen was out.

At Kansas City the circuit-leading Blues split a double header with Milwaukee. With Newt Kimball pitching, the Brewers took the first game 4 to 1. The Blues won 2 to 1.

Louisville was in Indianapolis and took the Indians in a twin contest 6 to 5 and 6 to 3. Minneapolis, still in second place in the association race, beat St. Paul 5 to 2.

DENNY SHUTE'S HOPE FOR P. G. A. MEET VANISHES

CHICAGO, June 12—Last hope that he would be allowed to participate in the Professional Golf Association tournament, at Flushing, N. Y., July 10-15, went glimmering today for Denny Shute of Boston.

Shute's entry reached the P. G. A. office in Chicago two days late, and Tom Walsh, secretary of the association, said:

"This disqualified him... the association is pretty strict about the regulations."

Had he won the National Open tournament at Philadelphia, Shute would automatically have qualified for the P. G. A., but he lost out in the playoff to Byron Nelson and Craig Wood.

INJURED DRIVING RANGE OPERATOR ADVISES WOOD

BRYN MAWR, Pa., June 12—Robert Mossman, the golf ball driving range proprietor who was struck on the head by a brassie shot Craig Wood fired at the 18th green in Sunday's playoff of the National Open golf match, was reported "resting comfortably" today.

After the match, Wood hurried to Bryn Mawr hospital to see Mossman, who quipped:

"Craig, if you'll open the face of that club, you'll cure that hook."

Brooklyn Fans Up and Down
As Teams Split; Yanks
Take Two More

NEW YORK, June 12 — Both major leagues are idle today so this would appear to be a good time to take stock of events to date.

With almost one third of the season gone, it becomes increasingly evident that the Reds and the Yanks are the strongest teams in their respective leagues.

Baseball men expect these teams to have their pennants in the bag by July 4 and the only question at the moment is the size of their lead at the finish.

The Yanks are sweeping through the American League like a typhoon and the Reds, while meeting sterner opposition in their circuit, are almost sure to win the flag.

Both teams have power, good defense, speed, classy pitching, plenty of pep and are ably managed. What more could one ask of a ball club?

Xenia Invaders Blank New Holland Team, 2-0

Xenia's Alpha Implement Co., undefeated so far this season, was too tough for the Old Hollanders on the Mike Helfrich lot, Sunday, winning a 3-0 game. The Old Hollanders were permitted only two safeties, one coming in the last frame.

A high wind impaired play. The game was scoreless until the seventh frame when Ross, hurling for the Hollanders weakened slightly to permit the first run. Two more crossed in the eighth for the Xenia invaders. Graves finished for New Holland.

Xenia Invaders Blank New Holland Team, 2-0

Xenia's Alpha Implement Co., undefeated so far this season, was too tough for the Old Hollanders on the Mike Helfrich lot, Sunday, winning a 3-0 game. The Old Hollanders were permitted only two safeties, one coming in the last frame.

A high wind impaired play. The game was scoreless until the seventh frame when Ross, hurling for the Hollanders weakened slightly to permit the first run. Two more crossed in the eighth for the Xenia invaders. Graves finished for New Holland.

HIGH WIND SWEEPS DISTRICT; OHIO REPORTS ONE DEATH, DAMAGE

TREES IN CITY, COUNTY SUFFER DURING WEEKEND

Telephone Company Finds its Losses Minor; Month's Rain Total Soars

MERCURY'S HIGH IS 81

Hicksville, O., Woman Killed When Sitting in Car Beside Husband

A strong wind, that reached gale-like proportions at various times, swept over Circleville and Pickaway county during the weekend, forcing motorists to exercise extreme care in operation of their cars, but failing to cause any widespread damage.

The wind forced temperatures to remain below average marks of the last week, Sunday's high reaching only 81 degrees and the low mark during the night being 64.

The Citizens Telephone Co., which always has a crew of men ready for emergencies caused by the high wind, reported no serious damage to lines. Several telephones were out of order in rural districts.

Many trees were uprooted in various parts of the city and county.

Rain that fell Saturday night added more than one third of an inch to the county's already high June total. The government report lists 2.45 inches so far this month.

DEFIANCE, June 12—A series of freak wind and electrical storms which cut across northwestern Ohio left one person dead today and caused property damage estimated by highway patrolmen at well over $160,000.

Victim of one of the sporadic outbreaks of wind and rain was Mrs. Harry Metz, 40, of nearby Hicksville. She was crushed to death when a huge tree, uprooted by a wind of cyclonic proportions, fell on the automobile in which she was sitting with her husband.

Metz escaped injury.

Rural areas in Defiance, Williams and Fulton counties suffered heavy damage, many barns being unroofed and hundreds of head of sheep and cattle being killed by the flying debris.

Damage estimated at $50,000 was counted up in Fulton county in the wake of the high wind. Every municipality in the county was without telephone or electric service for two hours. Many barns were demolished.

President at West Point; Bids Royalty Farewell

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 12—President Roosevelt turned to sterner things today after four pleasantly hectic days of introducing nervously admiring Americans to their Britannic majesties, George VI and Elizabeth.

This noon, at West Point, the chief executive—as commander-in-chief of the military establishment—was personally graduating the 1939 class of the U. S. military academy.

Over champagne glasses in Washington and milder drinks at a Dutchess Hill picnic, the President and the British sovereign had pledged fealty to the cause of world peace.

As the amiable, well-liked King and Queen sped over the border to the termination of their Canadian-American good will tour, however, Mr. Roosevelt motored down to the military academy to give further vocal assurance that the United States is fully prepared for any eventualities.

American Day Enjoyed
Behind him and Mrs. Roosevelt a. the Hudson river family estate were memories of two smiling royal visitors who got their first introduction to that great American snack, the hot dog, at a Dutchess Hill picnic; who were personally chauffeured by the President in his manually-operated touring car over some eight miles of dusty cross roads; who peed off in the heat of the afternoon and went swimming with them in their picturesquely-set tiled pool.

They also (the President and Mrs. Roosevelt) remembered those first two terrifically hot days in Washington when everything went by protocol and the fair-skinned Queen got sunburned despite her parasol.

The Roosevelt clan pulled out of Hyde Park at 9:30 this morning for "the Point" where future generals of the American army planned a colorful show for the President, who was to address them—and also the nation via the radio at 11:48 a. m.

There was a semblance of exhaustion on each side of the hands-across-the-sea meeting. There was no doubt but what their majesties were delighted with their Hyde Park visit. Also, there seemed to be no doubt but what they were anxious to get to that boat which will take them away from all of the Canadian-American enthusiastic pulling and hauling. White House aides had warned in advance that the President's broadcast speech from West Point would carry little significance in the grim diplomatic battle now waging to maintain world peace.

The setting was such, nevertheless, that many thought he might have a further message of reassurance.

Armaments Voted
Back in Washington, where the President will return tonight, congress already has voted the greatest peace-time armament program in history.

But it was memories of the shy King and the vivacious Queen of England and all her far-flung dominions that remained in the minds of most Americans—particularly those who had stood for hours under the blazing sun to catch a glimpse of them during their well-filled visit to these United States.

FAIR OPERATORS WOULD ATTRACT BIGGER CROWDS
NEW YORK, June 12—Executives of the New York World's Fair Corporation were called into meeting tonight to consider methods of bolstering attendance at the World of Tomorrow which hit an unexpected slump Saturday when the presence of King George and Queen Elizabeth was expected to attract record breaking crowds.

Fair officials had expected an attendance of a million Saturday but the turnstiles only got up to 196,116.

Drastic revision of publicity and advertising methods and a slash in the payroll were expected to be some of the proposals considered by the board of directors.

A NEW "STARDUST"

Tommy Dorsey will introduce a new Hoagy Carmichael tune on his June 14 show. Tommy has done that before, but this time it's news, because Hoagy and Tommy feel sure that this new song, called "Blue Orchids," is a runner-up to Hoagy's tremendous hit of eight years ago, "Stardust." "Blue Orchids" follows the general structure of "Stardust" and has the same type of poignant melody that has always set "Stardust" off from the common run of Tin-Pan Alley tunes. Hoagy says that while one would never be mistaken for the other, the two songs could be played as a medley and their similarity would be "comfortably amazing."

Ohio 4-H Club Members To Learn Conservation

COLUMBUS, June 12—Two 4-H club members from each Ohio county will have a chance to receive an exceptionally good short course in the conservation of Ohio's natural resources at Camp Ohio, August 20-25, according to W. H. Palmer, state club leader, Ohio State university.

The program is divided into conservation of soils, forests, fish, birds and animals, and human beings. Sunday evening, August 20, the group will hear G. W. McCollough, Minneapolis, wildlife technician, and Rev. H. H. Creager, Millersburg. Both men will speak of the importance of the need and the opportunities to save natural resources.

D. R. Dodd and E. P. Reed, agronomists, Ohio State, have charge of the Monday program and will show some of the work being done to save Ohio soil. A trip to a farm where modern erosion control practices are being used will be taken in the forenoon. Dr. L. B. Corwin, Soils Conservation Service, will give the history of a rain storm, and Dr. G. W. Conrey, Ohio State university, will tell of the relationships between soil and water.

F. W. Dean, Wooster, extension forester, is planning the forestry program for Tuesday. Camp Ohio now has forest plantings of various ages so there is material on the grounds to illustrate the points that the foresters will make. Motion pictures of forestry practices will show some phases of forest work which can not be seen otherwise in Ohio.

R. D. Barden, specialist in agriculture engineering, goes outside his field to organize the Wednesday program on fish and birds. Reverend R. E. Eshmeier, Bloomville, will tell how to identify fish and how to catch and care for them until they are cooked, and Lee Roach, Athens, Division of Conservation, will give instructions on building small farm ponds for fish and bait culture. Dr. Floyd Chapman, Division of Conservation, will use motion pictures to illustrate his talk on Ohio birds in the evening.

Thursday, the Ohio Division of Conservation takes over the camp. Don Waters, commissioner of conservation, opens the program in the morning, and A. W. Short, chief, bureau of game management, and a group of his men present a survey of the division's work with game birds and animals in the state. The division also will have a game management exhibit throughout the week and will provide the specimens for the Wednesday's fish identification class.

Dr. George T. Harding, Worthington, opens the Friday program with a talk on human heredity problems. The 4-H club members at the camp will be from 16 to 20 years old, so the talk by Dr. Harding may be of inestimable value to many of them. Club members and one of the men at Camp will sum up the week's activities as a closing feature.

Afternoons at camp will be devoted to practical instruction in such activities as building bird houses, bait casting, archery, safe use of fire arms, photography, games and folk dancing. Miss Kathryn Thompson, Columbus, has charge of group singing and vesper services throughout the week. R. Bruce Tom, Ohio State university, supervises the group games during camp.

The conservation camp is made possible by C. L. Horn, president

TIBBETT'S UNCLE, KILLER OF GUNMAN, DIES IN WEST

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., June 12—Flying from New York' Lawrence Tibbett was to arrive today for the funeral later of Bert Tibbett, 63, his uncle, a veteran law enforcement officer who slew the outlaw killer of the famous singer's father.

When W. E. Tibbett entered a Chinese Joss house in Bakersfield to arrest Ed McKinney, he was shot down and killed by the notorious outlaw. In turn, McKinney was slain by Bert Tibbett as he attempted to escape from a rear door in the place.

A native of Bakersfield, Bert Tibbett was a son of parents who crossed the Great Plains by ox cart in 1864.

Bert died last weekend.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 12—President Roosevelt turned to sterner things today after four pleasantly hectic days of introducing nervously admiring Americans to their Britannic majesties, George VI and Elizabeth.

This noon, at West Point, the chief executive—as commander-in-chief of the military establishment—was personally graduating the 1939 class of the U. S. military academy.

Over champagne glasses in Washington and milder drinks at a Dutchess Hill picnic, the President and the British sovereign had pledged fealty to the cause of world peace.

As the amiable, well-liked King and Queen sped over the border to the termination of their Canadian-American good will tour, however, Mr. Roosevelt motored down to the military academy to give further vocal assurance that the United States is fully prepared for any eventualities.

American Day Enjoyed

Behind him and Mrs. Roosevelt as the Hudson river family estate were memories of two smiling royal visitors who got their first introduction to that great American snack, the hot dog, at a Dutchess Hill picnic; who were personally chauffeured by the President in his manually-operated touring car over some eight miles of dusty cross roads; who peeled off in the heat of the afternoon and went swimming with them in their picturesquely-set tiled pool.

They also (the President and Mrs. Roosevelt) remembered those first two terrifically hot days in Washington when everything went by protocol and the fair-skinned Queen got sunburned despite her parasol.

The Roosevelt clan pulled out of Hyde Park at 9:30 this morning for "the Point" where future generals of the American army planned a colorful show for the President, who was to address them—and also the nation via the radio at 11:48 a. m.

There was a semblance of exhaustion on each side of the hands-across-the-sea meeting. There was no doubt but what their majesties were delighted with their Hyde Park visit. Also, there seemed to be no doubt but what they were anxious to get to that boat which will take them away from all of the Canadian-American enthusiastic pulling and hauling. FAIR OPERATORS WOULD ATTRACT BIGGER CROWDS

NEW YORK, June 12—Executives of the New York World's Fair Corporation were called into meeting tonight to consider methods of bolstering attendance at the World of Tomorrow which hit an unexpected slump Saturday when the presence of King George and Queen Elizabeth was expected to attract record breaking crowds.

Fair officials had expected an attendance of a million Saturday but the turnstiles only got up to 196,116.

Drastic revision of publicity and advertising methods and a slash in the payroll were expected to be some of the proposals considered by the board of directors.

A NEW "STARDUST"

Tommy Dorsey will introduce a new Hoagy Carmichael tune on his June 14 show. Tommy has done that before, but this time it's news, because Hoagy and Tommy feel sure that this new song, called "Blue Orchids," is a runner-up to Hoagy's tremendous hit of eight years ago, "Stardust."

"Blue Orchids" follows the general structure of "Stardust" and has the same type of poignant melody that has always set "Stardust" off from the common run of Tin-Pan-Alley tunes. Hoagy says that while one would never be mistaken for the other, the two songs could be played as a medley and their similarity would be "comfortably amazing."

Ohio 4-H Club Members To Learn Conservation

COLUMBUS, June 12—Two 4-H club members from each Ohio county will have a chance to receive an exceptionally good short course in the conservation of Ohio's natural resources at Camp Ohio, August 20-25, according to W. H. Palmer, state club leader, Ohio State university.

The program is divided into conservation of soils, forests, fish, birds and animals, and human beings. Sunday evening, August 20, the group will hear G. W. McCollough, Minneapolis, wildlife technician, and Rev. H. H. Creager, Millersburg. Both men will speak of the importance of the need and the opportunities to save natural resources.

D. R. Dodd and E. P. Reed, agronomists, Ohio State, have charge of the Monday program and will show some of the work being done to save Ohio soil. A trip to a farm where modern erosion control practices are being used will be taken in the forenoon. Dr. L. B. Corwin, Soils Conservation Service, will give the history of a rain storm, and Dr. G. W. Conrey, Ohio State university, will tell of the relationships between soil and water.

F. W. Dean, Wooster, extension forester, is planning the forestry program for Tuesday. Camp Ohio now has forest plantings of various ages so there is material on the grounds to illustrate the points that the foresters will make. Motion pictures of forestry practices will show some phases of forest work which can not be seen otherwise in Ohio.

R. D. Barden, specialist in agriculture engineering, goes outside his field to organize the Wednesday program on fish and birds. Reverend R. E. Eshmeier, Bloomville, will tell how to identify fish and how to catch and care for them until they are cooked, and Lee Roach, Athens, Division of Conservation, will give instructions on building small farm ponds for fish and bait culture. Dr. Floyd Chapman, Division of Conservation, will use motion pictures to illustrate his talk on Ohio birds in the evening.

Thursday, the Ohio Division of Conservation takes over the camp. Don Waters, commissioner of conservation, opens the program in the morning, and A. W. Short, chief, bureau of game management, and a group of his men present a survey of the division's work with game birds and animals in the state. The division also will have a game management exhibit throughout the week and will provide the specimens for the Wednesday's fish identification class.

Dr. George T. Harding, Worthington, opens the Friday program with a talk on human heredity problems. The 4-H club members at the camp will be from 16 to 20 years old, so the talk by Dr. Harding may be of inestimable value to many of them. Club members and one of the men at Camp will sum up the week's activities as a closing feature.

Afternoons at camp will be devoted to practical instruction in such activities as building bird houses, bait casting, archery, safe use of fire arms, photography, games and folk dancing. Miss Kathryn Thompson, Columbus, has charge of group singing and vesper services throughout the week. R. Bruce Tom, Ohio State university, supervises the group games during camp.

The conservation camp is made possible by C. L. Horn, president

ALEC TEMPLETON

It will be a double celebration for Alec Templeton on Tuesday, July 4. First, he will be making his debut as star of the Summer replacement series for Fibber McGee and Molly, one of the major network shows heard weekly at 8:30 p. m., over the NBC-Red network, and second, he will be celebrating his 29th birthday.

Born without sight in Cardiff, South Wales, on Independence Day in 1910, Alec showed exceptional musical ability from the first. He composed his first real composition, a "Slow Movement" consisting of sixteen bars, when he was four. At five, he received his first music lesson and continued these at home until he was nine. Then attending Worcester College, England, he became the pupil of Sir Ivor Atkins, the organist of Worcester Cathedral. He remained at college until he was seventeen and during that time he composed many fine works which were published. He also won the British Broadcast prize for composition.

TIBBETT'S UNCLE, KILLER OF GUNMAN, DIES IN WEST

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., June 12—Flying from New York, Lawrence Tibbett was to arrive today for the funeral later of Bert Tibbett, 63, his uncle, a veteran law enforcement officer who slew the outlaw killer of the famous singer's father.

When W. E. Tibbett entered a Chinese Joss house in Bakersfield to arrest Ed McKinney, he was shot down and killed by the notorious outlaw. In turn, McKinney was slain by Bert Tibbett as he attempted to escape from a rear door in the place.

A native of Bakersfield, Bert Tibbett was a son of parents who crossed the Great Plains by ox cart in 1864.

Bert died last weekend.
